Advice from Chestnut Nursery

Andrew Verreck, Nursery Manager

Small is Beautiful

Terrariums are all the rage at the moment and it's easy to see why. They just look so fascinating, having a miniature landscape, a jungle paradise or desert oasis nestled happily in its own protected environment. Composed to replicate all manner of natural habitats, they can turn the smallest space into a place to let the mind escape and wonder. Children find them fascinating and fun to create, whilst providing a great platform to learn about the natural world in the safety of the home.

They also make exceedingly fab gifts and we now have a new Terrarium area at the nursery, stocking a range of pre-planted examples as well as everything you need to create and maintain your own. Please feel free to ask a member of staff and we will be sure to help you achieve your very own mini paradise.

As the cooler months set in and the days draw shorter, there are still ways to use your garden and outside space. Fire bowls have had a surge in popularity and with a few lamps dotted around, you can still use your garden to catch up with friends and loved ones. We have a range of bowls and lamps to suit all budgets as well as seasoned hard wood logs. That way we can all stay warm and connected with our gardens and each other.

We are Chestnut Nursery, the little garden centre with a big heart "Caring for people, caring for plants".
